

Radionic Energy Fields: The Science Behind the Magic

Table of Contents

Chapter 1	Introduction	3
Chapter 2	What Does Radionic Energy Do?	8
Chapter 3	Scientific Studies With Radionic Energy	10
Chapter 4	What Can You Do With Radionic Energy	11
Chapter 5	Issues With Radionic Energy	15
Chapter 6	Conclusion	17
Appendix	References	18

Chapter 1

Introduction

What is Radionic Energy?

Everything in the world, even the entire universe, is comprised, at its basic, sub-atomic level, of energy.

Some forms of energy include electricity, magnetism, gravity, heat and light. While each of these is a different form of energy, they all stem from the same type of occurrence: vibrations within matter. The only difference is the frequency of the vibrations and the medium through which the vibrations are conducted (i.e. air, water, metal, empty space, etc.)

Energy also exists in our own bodies. Our brain generates electro-chemical messages that our nerves carry to our muscles so that our legs may stand, our lungs may breathe, our hearts may beat. There are thousands of these electro-chemical messages being broadcast every instant. And these messages are not just being carried to our muscles.

*The Crab Nebula is an example of the many types of energy emitted through various media.
(Photo Courtesy of NASA)*

Every moment of every day, our brains are at work. Sights, sounds, smells, tastes and tactile contacts are constantly bombarding the brain with their stimuli. Memories, emotions, imaginings and thoughts are also part of the cerebral process.

With all this stuff going on in our heads, it's no wonder we get headaches.

Like all objects, living and inert, the body absorbs and emits energy. Light is reflected off of the water in a pan tells us the pan is full. The rumble of the water indicates the water is boiling. The heat of the steam lets our brain know that the water is hot. Here we have an example of three different types of energy (light, sound and heat) being absorbed by our body and being processed by our brain.

And these are just examples of energies that we can sense. There are thousands of other energies that we cannot sense. We cannot see a police radar, though we can certainly see the effects of it as we are handed a speeding ticket. We cannot see radio waves, but music is there whenever we turn on the car stereo. And we can certainly see the effects of gravity when the outfielder makes that great catch.

All of these things lead to the concept of energy fields. An energy field is the area around which the effects of a particular kind of energy can be detected. A compass always pointing North on any point of the Earth is caused by the Earth's magnetic field. That baseball always falling back to the outfielder, no matter where the game is played, is a result of the Earth's gravitational field. Hearing your favorite station on your car radio is because you are within a particular station's electromagnetic field. Notice what happens to the station when you move out of the electromagnetic field.

Intrinsic Data Fields (IDFs)

All animate and inanimate objects, no matter how simple or complex, have an Intrinsic Data Field. These fields structure data related to the object or energy within them in a form or pattern. The study of these patterns can tell us about the object or energy creating the IDF. Studying the magnetic field of the Earth can tell us about the chemical makeup within the Earth's core. By analyzing the emissions from a distant star, the star's mass, size, distance, age and chemical composition can all be determined.

But what about the body? It is an animate object. It contains numerous energies. Does it have its own Intrinsic Data Field? Does everyone have an IDF as unique as they are?

The answer is, yes.

By its physical and electro-chemical nature, the human body is teeming with energies that comprise its IDF. Every living thing, from animals to trees also emits a personal IDF. We are constantly in contact with IDFs from the world around us. Plants, pets, friends, work associates, lovers and people you pass on the street all come in contact with your IDF. And your IDF comes in contact with them.

So what does this mean? It means that our energies are constantly being touched, influenced and even altered by the world around us.

Is this starting to sound like the Force from Star Wars? Well, in a way, it is a little like the Force, or an energy field made up of all living things. It surrounds us. It binds us. It connects us. But unlike a Jedi, we really can't utilize this energy for our own purposes.

Or, can we?

Enter Radionics. Radionics is the study of these IDFs and their influence on our world. You may have heard references to this study under different names such as biofields, auras, psionics or chi. The term “Radionics” is made up of two words: Radiation and Electronics. While the term itself is relatively modern, the study of the body’s energy goes back to ancient times.

Radionic Energy is the body's energy.

Have you ever woke up with that feeling that it is about to rain even though your windows and curtains are closed? Have you ever got the feeling that a friend of yours is troubled in spite of their laughter and wide smile? Have you ever had a premonition that an old friend whom you haven’t seen in years and who lives in another state is experiencing pain? Some may call these ‘instinctual’ or ‘being in tune’. Some may even go so far as to say ‘psychic’. Well, in truth, they are all right.

These feelings are nothing more than instinctively being in tune with another’s IDF. And that, bottom line, is psychic energy.

So, back to our question, ‘Can we utilize this energy for our own purposes?’ Can we help that troubled friend without talking to them about what might be troubling them? Can we call out to our long lost friend and let them know we care? Can we tell that police officer we don’t need that speeding ticket? (‘These aren’t the droids you’re looking for.’)

Through the study of Radionic Energy, you can influence your world.

By strengthening your own IDF, you can influence the people around you, even when separated by great distances. You can make a change in your world.

This is the study of Radionic Energies.

The History of Radionics

Radionics was founded by Dr. Albert Abrams (1863-1924). Born in San Francisco, Dr. Abrams studied medicine at the University in Heiderberg and became a professor of pathology. Later, Dr. Abrams became the Director of Clinical Medicine at Leland Stanford University in California. He wrote several medical textbooks and was nationally respected for his research in diseases of the nervous system.

During his research, Dr. Abrams discovered that diseases could be measured in terms of energy. He found that under certain conditions, a human subject’s nervous system reacts to the energy field of external elements, such as a sample of diseased tissue or a person with a particular disease. The reaction is demonstrated in an imbalance of the electrons in atoms, rather than a cellular imbalance. Hence, the disease could be studied as a form of radiating energy.

His experiments involved having human subjects hold wires connected to a vial of body tissue and then analyzing the sounds formed when their abdomen was touched. Abrams detailed the sounds associated with a wide range of different diseases, disorders and conditions.

Dr. Abrams found that individual diseases had unique IDFs.

To improve the detection of these findings, he created a device of calibrated dials, which enabled him to identify and measure disease reactions and intensities.

Through further research, Dr. Abrams realized that the radiating energy from diseased tissue may be sensed after it has traveled through the body or even along a wire. It was also found that different diseases had unique energies that could be used for identification.

Eventually, Dr. Abrams found that he could diagnose a particular disease merely by analyzing a blood sample from a patient from 500 miles away when that sample is placed next to a phone line. The energies from the disease would cause an electrical reaction in the blood, which would then emit a unique energy field that is absorbed by the electromagnetic microphone of the receiver and then transmitted over the phone line.

What was even more amazing was that Dr. Abrams found he could accomplish the same diagnosis when there was no linking wire connection between himself and the subject, though the distance was never greater than one mile.

From these elements came Radionics as we know it today.

As you can imagine, the medical and scientific community attacked Dr. Abrams' findings and sought to discredit him. In 1924, a British committee of the Royal Society of Medicine under the chairmanship of Lord Thomas Horder investigated his claims. After numerous tests, the medical and scientific community has not been able to disprove Dr. Abrams' findings.

Dr. Drown used IDFs to cure diseases.

In the 1930's, an American Chiropractor by the name of Dr. Ruth Drown expanded on Dr. Abrams' research. She redesigned the diagnostic instrument into a more compact system, which gave greater flexibility and extended range. She also developed a baseline of what was considered "healthy" or "perfect" for several body systems, disease types, toxins, poisons and even emotional states. From this baseline, the degree of deviation could be qualified.

Then, Dr. Drown began to do something different. She began to feed the baseline, or "perfect rate" back to the afflicted subject, either by wires or remotely. The idea was a sort of "broadcasting" of a healthy tissue or state back to the diseased body, thereby causing the body to react and create healthy cells to replace the diseased ones. The body could then be cured through this positive broadcast. This was the first scientific use of IDF influence. Later, she found that this broadcast could be performed anywhere in the world for the treatment of diseases.

Today, the idea of Radionics and broadcasting has become incorporated in many holistic approaches to medicine.

EnchanterX Software

But Radionic Energy is not used exclusively for medical purposes. Today, practitioners of Radionics can use their energies or IDFs to influence the world around them. Whether it is for finding keys or finding a soul mate, Radionic Energy can be focused, harnessed and used to change lives.

The EnchanterX Software has been developed by expert practitioners of Radionic Energy. The software is designed to help you focus your own IDF and change your world. By entering a few parameters in the software of your intended desire, EnchanterX delivers a series of vibrations that, when played aloud, influence your own IDF and allow you to harness your own Radionic Energy.

Chapter 2

What Does Radionic Energy Do?

Not Just for Healing

While Radionics started out as a method of diagnosis and treatment of bodily ailments, its current uses extends into other fields such as automotive, business, agriculture, sports and domestics.

The complete practice of Radionics stems from the basic principal that all life forms have its own electromagnetic field and that all of these life form are contained in the Earth's electromagnetic field. The influence or disturbance of these IDF's is what makes Radionics possible.

The right brain controls abstract reasoning and artistic ability, as well as intuitive cognizance.

A practitioner of Radionics accepts that all is energy and energy can be affected by other energies. This energy can be detected by a practitioner utilizing his/her intuitive faculties, which is considered to be a right-brain function. Since the intuitive mind reaches beyond rational and logical thought (which are left-brain functions), a person can "tune in" to both his mind and personal IDF.

If you are in tune with your IDF, you can then detect both negative and positive influences on your own energy. Once these influences are recognized, they can be influenced by broadcasting your own energy. As a result, you become the influence on the energies around you.

And this broadcasting is not limited to space. Your broadcast can reach as far as you will your energy. Just like the radio transmitter can broadcast a radio signal for several miles, so you can broadcast your own energy to be received by someone tuning in to your frequency.

Modern Science and Radionics

The advances in physics in the twentieth century, along with those of the new century, are helping us understand a different reality of the universe, which is much closer to the way a Radionics practitioner might see things. Theories of dark energy, for example, state that even that which is called "empty space" contains matter and energy that influences other forms of matter and energy that pass through it.

Scientists are also becoming more aware of how consciousness affects not only reality, but also even scientific experiments and their observation and measurement. The Hubble Telescope, whose findings have been the primary catalyst of new developments in science, has proven the need to have a stellar observation platform that is not located on the Earth's surface. Energies and influences of the Earth itself have been distorting emissions and energies from deep space, altering the findings and changing perceived reality.

While this may be the new perspective in physics, it's considerably years ahead of medicine. As a whole, medicine is still operating largely from a Newtonian perspective of the universe - a mechanical, physical, biochemical view of reality and illness.

But Radionics, like modern physics, gathers information about subtle energies in order to heal both the physical body and the emotional soul. This isn't new knowledge, but a modernization of an ancient knowledge.

Radionics may include treatment that uses frequencies of energy, which correspond to organs, diseases, psychological states, elements, natural remedies (i.e. herbal, homeopathic, flower, nutritional, etc.), allowing the user to create their own remedies and treatments.

Chapter 3

Scientific Studies With Radionic Energy

Current uses of Radionic Energies

Currently, the study of Radionics is utilized primarily in the medical field. It is used for the treatment of many types of ailments such as back pain, headaches, high blood pressure, stomach ulcers, asthma and depression.

In 2003, Tom Lafferty, a Radionic practitioner and member of the Radionics Association in the United Kingdom, conducted a survey of patients that received Radionic treatments.

This study showed patients whose afflictions were causing a major or drastic negative effect on their well-being. In each of these instances, the patients had at one time been examined and diagnosed by their doctor. A treatment program then ensued with little or no result.

Studies prove that Radionics works!

These patients then took a more holistic approach and received Radionic treatment. According to the Lafferty Study, 66% of the patients reported a major or total improvement in the complaint itself. In addition to the treatment of a specific ailment, 61% reported an overall improvement on their well-being.

Further observations of these patients included increased energy, improved sleeping habits and even weight loss. 85% of these patients went so far as to say that they felt they needed no further conventional treatment.

This study shows just how effective Radionic treatment can be in the field of medicine.

Chapter 4

What Can You Do With Radionic Energy?

Other Application of Radionic Energies As stated before, Radionic Energy is not exclusively an alternative form of medical treatment. Since IDFs exist in all matter, Radionics can be used to influence all manner of substances. And, since energy can influence energy, your personal IDF can affect the IDF of other people.

Let us look at some practical applications of Radionic Energy.

Clearing Negative Energy How many times have you walked into a building or met someone new and got that “bad vibe”? These negative emotion energies are usually caused by prolonged or repeated exposure to anger, hate or violence.

Sometimes these “bad vibes” are simply are nothing more than vibrations that are out-of-sync with our own. In these cases, there may not be anything negative present in the room or person, but a lack of harmony with the current energies.

By harnessing and focusing our own IDF, we can cause these negative or out-of-sync vibrations to be in harmony with our own; or, we can alter our own IDF to be more in tune with the energies around us.

Granted, if there are negative energies present, we would not want to be in sync with them. Use your influence to invoke a positive change.

Measuring two IDFs

Your boss assigns you to a project with a person you do not know. It is an important project for your company and you wonder if you can work as a team with this person.

By reading the IDFs of you and the other person, you can determine if you can and will harmonize together and have a good relationship.

This can also be effective when entering a relationship.

Finding Lost Articles

This is a fun way to truly test the effects of IDFs and Radionic Energies.

Don Paris in his book Regaining Wholeness Through Subtle Dimensions: Where Science Meets Magic, he describes an instance where an art gallery contacted him to find a lost Picasso painting. He passed on the request to a friend of his who began focusing on the painting. The gallery gave him a list of over a hundred of possible galleries and private collectors who might have had access to the painting.

After focusing on the painting for a time, he made a call to one gallery on the list. While they did not have the painting, they gave him the number of one that might. He then called the second gallery, only to find that they did not have the painting either. However, a customer standing nearby overheard the conversation and disclosed the location of the sought after painting.

While skeptics may call this a coincidence, practitioners of Radionic Energy know that only being in tune with IDFs can cause this kind of result.

Repelling Pests

By patterning a crop field, garden or greenhouse with an appropriate IDF, insects, rodents and other pests can be driven away by your Radionic Energy.

Again, Don Paris gives an example of how this works in his book Regaining Wholeness Through Subtle Dimensions: Where Science Meets Magic. In it, he describes doing exactly as described above in a greenhouse and having the bug leave the greenhouse.

Increasing Sports Performance

Whether they realize it or not, every professional athlete uses IDFs in a major way in their every day performance. Many athletes refer to it as being ‘in the Zone’. This state is where every aspect of their mind and body is focused and balanced to provide optimum performance. There are many physical factors that can influence this such as proper nutrition, constant practice and adequate rest.

In addition to these physical influences, athletes often visualize their success in their event. Whether it is making the free-throw, running the play, making the jump or winning the race, every successful athlete visualizes himself succeeding. This is a way of focusing your IDF.

This focus can also be utilized to reduce or even eliminate pain anxiety or nervousness.

IDFs have been helping athletes succeed for centuries.

Finding Love

The romantics call it ‘Love at First Sight’ and the realists call it ‘Garbage’. These are the same realists who sit alone in bars night after night waiting for that right person to come through the door.

Practitioners of Radionics make ‘Love at First Sight’ happen.

By focusing your IDF, you can emit energies that make you attractive and sexy. Whether you are looking for ‘the one’ or ‘the one for tonight’, IDF make this possible.

Increasing Wealth

Ever wonder why some people get that promotion at work and you don’t? Does it bother you that someone who just started with your company is making more money than you?

By focusing on your IDF, you can change the way other people perceive you. Let them see you as intelligent and successful. If they see you as intelligent and successful, they will treat you as intelligent and successful.

Through Radionic Energies, you can get that promotion, you can close that deal, you can finally earn what you are worth.

Revenge

How would you like to get back at that ex-lover that jilted you? Or maybe the one she threw you over for?

How would you like to get back at them without them even knowing it was you?

By harnessing Radionic Energy, you can focus negative energies into the IDFs of those on which you are seeking revenge. Give them the retribution they deserve.

Other Uses

Some other uses of Radionics can be:

- health and fitness
 - happy home
 - influencing others
 - passing exams
 - increased confidence
 - improved conversation
-

Chapter 5

Issues With Radionic Energy

Radionics and Magic

There are certain items that can help you harness your personal IDF and to influence those IDFs around you. A picture of a loved one, a particular piece of music, a pattern of color or an arrangement of a space can provide a means that cause you to be more in tune with your body's energies.

Often, it is necessary to use one or more of these items at a particular stage of focusing your IDF in order to achieve the desired effect. And in some cases, the order must be repeated.

The desired effects are achieved through forces and energies of the mind, body and Earth. Many of the effects have no physical explanation, such as the remission of a disease or the location of a lost item.

So is this magic?

If you look at it in terms of ritual, meta-physical energy and para-normal effects, then yes, you can call it magic. Many practitioners of Radionics call their periods of focus, 'spellcasting'.

But by whatever name you call it, Radionics has been being practiced for centuries whether it be by fakirs laying on a bed of nails, villagers walking across hot coals or a sprinter getting 'in the Zone' for his race.

You are harnessing energy. You are harnessing power. And that is magic.

Issues with Skeptics

If there is no logical basis for magic, then why are physical ailments cured through Radionic Energies? Why do athletes focus on their game? How can we know our friend is troubled?

Skeptics will call this mind over matter or coincidence or intuition. They will credit a persons' strength of will or chalk it up to fate.

They see that fakir lying on a bed of nails and say, "What superior mind control he has over his body." Superior mind control... Mind over matter... Using the energy of the mind to influence the physical world. That is precisely what Radionic Energy is all about.

What they don't realize is that they are attributing the results to Radionic Energy without calling it Radionic Energy. They use phrases like 'mind over matter' or 'strength of will' instead of calling it for what it is.

They should just call it magic.

Chapter 5

Conclusion

Conclusion

According to the science of the past four hundred years, everything in the universe is made up of mass and energy. Modern science now shows us that even matter is made up of energy. Therefore the universe is a large mixing pot of energies.

We, as human being, also have mass and energy. Not just the energy from our limbs and organs, but energies from our mind.

As with all other energy fields, the body's energy produces an Intrinsic Data Field that is unique to every individual and can affect or be affected by other IDFs. This IDF is Radionic Energy.

By focusing on an IDF, you can influence the energies in the world around you. These energies can be used to cure diseases, find lost objects, help you succeed, improve relationships with others, kindle love and increase wealth.

Harnessing Radionic Energy, the science behind the magic, can help you live a healthier, happier, more productive life.

Disclaimer

Radionic Energy affects different people in different ways. Some individuals are more susceptible to IDF influences than others and some may require additional exposure for their own IDFs to be in harmony with your desired effect. Some effects are not instantaneous. They may require some time and repetition.

Radionics should not be used to replace the advice of a proper medical doctor. This e-book, or the EnchanterX Software, is in no way offering medical advice. While Radionic Energy can be used for healing, it should be used in conjunction with a proper treatment plan given by your doctor or as an alternative form of treatment delivered by a properly trained Radionics practitioner.

References

THEORY, CONCEPTS AND PRINCIPLES IN IDF RESEARCH: Biofield theory, Radionic Theory, Subtle Energy Research, Living from Vision, 1995.
<http://www.se-5.com/ther.html>

Paris, Don, Regaining Wholeness Through the Subtle Dimensions: Where Science Meets Magic, Living from Vision, 2003.

Franks, Nick, "Reflections on the Ether and some Notes on the Convergence Between Homoeopathy and Radionics", Radionic Journal 46 (2) 4-21, November 2000.

Lafferty, Tom, Radionics: A Patient Survey, Radionic Journal 49 (1), 27-35, January 2004.

What is Radionics?, The Radionics Association, 2003.
http://www.radionic.co.uk/What_is_radionics.htm

What is Radionics?, The Radionics and Dowsing Institute of Canada, 2002.
<http://radionicsinstitute.com/about.html>

Radionics, What is it?, Meridian Associates, 2003.
<http://homepage.ntlworld.com/felfield/what%20is%20radionics.htm>

Radionics, Borderland Sciences Research Foundation, 2004.
http://www.borderlands.com/newstuff/research/superior_radionics.htm

"Radionics", Ivy Rose Natural Health, Holistic Healing & Subtle Energy Information, Ivy Rose Ltd., 2003.
<http://www.ivy-rose.co.uk/information/Therapies/Radionics.htm>